The unacceptable clawbacks tabled by the university have been firmly rejected by you. It's time for the university to drop their strong-arm tactics and get back to the bargaining table to negotiate a fair deal that reflects the contributions that we make to the McMaster community.

You have made it clear that you will not be bullied and will not give up the dignity and respect we have all fought so hard to achieve.

Contrary to the university's misleading communications, there is no strike action planned at this time.

The Union Bargaining Team will be contacting the university to offer future bargaining dates, and will keep you updated.
